CHANGING THE BATTERY

When first using, please remove the plastic insulating strip to activate the scale.

To remove the spent battery, use an appropriate tool to help release the battery from the battery compartment.

Always use a new, fresh Lithium battery.

Ensure the +/- terminals are the correct way round when inserting the battery in the compartment.

*The booklet provides nutritional data for 999 food items, numbered from 001 - 999.

QUICK START INSTRUCTIONS

The following sequence will be used to obtain the nutritional values of food

1. Press the 'ON' button to activate the scale. It is ready for use when 'zeroed'.
2. Select the unit measure by pressing 'g/oz'. If measuring liquids, select either ml or fl oz.
3. If using a container to place the food in, put it on the scale first before turning it on.
(Please refer to Page 2 for details on the tare function)
4. Place the food on the scale: the weight will appear in the display window.
5. Find the corresponding food code at the back of this booklet. Enter the 3 digit number.
Note : The booklet lists 999 items only. If your food item has not been specifically coded, please find the item that is closest in content and use its 3 digit number.
6. The scale will then instantly and simultaneously display the nutritional values of the food weighed.
7. Press 'M+' to save to memory. 'M01' will appear representing the first food measured and saved.
8. Repeat steps 4 - 7 for additional foods ('M02', 'M03', 'M04' etc will appear sequentially with every addition saved).
9. Press 'MR' (Memory recall) to view stored cumulative values of the different foods weighed.
10. To clear all the saved data before commencing a new series of weighing and measuring, turn the scale on again. The scale is in weighing mode (MT is displayed), the food values show '000' and the last 'M' number saved is displayed. Touch the 'CLR/MC' key. 'M' will flash. Touch the 'CLR/MC' key again. The 'M' number disappears confirming that all the data last saved has now been cleared.

Care for your scale

- Place the scale on a flat, even surface before use.
- Do not dismantle the scale. It does not contain any parts that can be repaired by the user.
- Use the scale only for its intended purpose.
- The scale is not waterproof. Never immerse it in water or place it in a dishwasher.
- To clean the scale, use a mild dishwashing detergent on a damp cloth or sponge to remove spills and residue. Do not use anything abrasive on the glasstop.

OPERATING THE SCALE

It is advisable to read through the instructions first before attempting to operate the scale.

This product has a soft touch keypad. Do not press too hard. It may influence the reading. Touch the desired button softly with the tip of your finger.

Simple Weighing

1. If using a container to place the food in, put it on the scale first before turning it on.
2. Then press the 'ON' button. This is located to the right of the arrow on side of the scale
3. The scale will display all the information segments at 'zero' and 'WT' will appear at the top left corner of the screen. This is an indication that the scale is in weighing mode and ready for use.
4. Select the unit measure by pressing 'g/oz'.
5. Place the item slowly onto the scale.
6. The weight value will be shown.
7. If measuring liquids, select either ml or fl oz. To measure water, begin by pouring the water into your container, checking the display at the same time. Stop when the volume reaches your need
8. If left idle for about 60 seconds the scale will automatically turn itself off. Otherwise, press 'OFF'. This will help preserve battery life.

Tare Function

Use 'zero' for this function.

The function allows the separate weighing of items as each item is added to the scale. No need to empty the bowl or container.

1. After weighing the first item, press 'zero'.
2. With the first item still on the scale, add the second item. The readout will now show the weight of the second item only. Repeat these steps if you have additional items to weigh. The total combined weight of the items must not exceed the capacity of the scale, which is 5,000g / 176.4oz / 11lb 0.4oz / 5000ml.
3. The total weight of the items on the scale, (including the container or bowl if using one), can be obtained by pressing the 'zero' button again. Remove all items from the scale. The total weight will be displayed as a negative reading.

If you use this function, the weight of the container will be omitted thereby providing the nutritional values calculated based only on the weight of the food - not the food AND container. In simple terms, when you put an empty container on the scale and press the 'zero' key, it returns the weight registered on the scale to zero. When you place food in the container, only the food is weighed.

Many foods, such as whole apples, may be weighed directly on the scale, so there is no need to set a tare weight. Other foods that are liquid and items such as cottage cheese or apple sauce must obviously be placed in a separate container before being set on the scale. Whenever a separate container or wrapper is used, you must set the tare weight of the empty container first.

How to obtain nutritional data

Note : The booklet lists 999 items only. If your food item has not been specifically coded, please find the item that is closest in content and use its 3 digit number.

1. Weigh the food item first. Refer to Page 2.
2. Then search for the corresponding 3 digit food code from the list at the back of this booklet.
3. Enter the food code using the numerical keypad. For example, the code for Apple pie is 066.
4. The scale will then instantly and simultaneously display the nutritional values of the food weighed. It will identify the Calorie, Salt, Protein, Fat, Carbohydrate, Cholesterol and Fibre content.

How to save nutritional data and obtain total values

1. Weigh your first food item, then key its corresponding food code to obtain the nutritional values (steps as above)
2. Press to save it.
3. The display will show 'M01' to indicate the first saved nutritional data.
4. Before adding the next item, touch the 'CLR/MC' key to clear and 'zero' the display. Add the next item, weigh, enter its food code, then press 'M+' again.
5. The display will show 'M02' to indicate the second saved nutritional data.
6. Repeat Steps 1 - 4 for the third item. The display will show 'M03' to indicate the third saved nutritional data.
7. The scale allows up to 99 items to be added to memory.
8. To view the accumulated total values of all the foods entered in the one session, press the memory recall key or 'MR'. The scale will display the accumulated amounts of Calorie, Salt, Protein, Fat, Carbohydrate, Cholesterol and Fibre content. The total weight of the items placed on the scale will not be shown.

Note that the last data saved will not be lost even if the scale turns off.

How to recall saved nutritional data

1. Turn the scale on.
2. When in weighing mode (MT is displayed), press the memory recall key or 'MR'.
3. The scale displays the stored cumulative values of the different foods weighed. If 5 items were last saved, then the scale will show 'Σ05' confirming that the values shown relate to those 5 food items. The total weight of the items placed on the scale will not be shown.
4. To return to weighing mode, press 'MR'.

How to clear saved nutritional data

1. To clear all the saved data before commencing a new series of weighing and measuring, turn the scale on again.
2. The scale is in weighing mode (MT is displayed), the food values show '000' and the last 'M' number saved is displayed. Touch the 'CLR/MC' key. 'M' will flash. Touch the 'CLR/MC' key again. The 'M' number disappears confirming that all the data last saved has now been cleared.

The booklet lists 999 items only. If your food item has not been specifically coded, please find the item that is closest in content and use its 3 digit number. You must enter 3 digits. Failure to do this will result in an invalid, entry. For eg, the correct code for a Plain Bagel is '001', not '1'.

USE OF DATA

The scale contains data derived directly from a US Department of Agriculture Data Base. While the scale is very sensitive and highly accurate, the nutritional content of foods can be variable. The data given is presumed to be accurate for the sample the Government tested, but there can be significant variability in samples of the same types of food. For example, chocolate cake may be quite different because recipes vary from family to family and bakery to bakery. Similarly, the sugar content of fruits can vary considerably. On the other hand, certain quality-controlled foods, such as milk, won't vary much in nutritional content, and others, such as butter, are naturally uniform.

For these reasons, the nutritional values displayed by the scale should be considered as a very useful guide to good nutrition, but not as an absolute measure. In most cases, the accuracy will be sufficient to support your dietary requirements. However, we cannot assume any liability related to the accuracy and completeness of the information provided, nor to the way in which the information is used by the consumer. Before beginning any diet management program, users should consult with their physician or a registered dietitian.

Glossary - Nutritional Terms

Calorie - A calorie (Kcal) is a basic unit used to measure the energy contained in food. Most foods have calories in a food, the more energy it supplies. (1 calorie/Kcal = 4,184 kilojoules/KJ/s)

Salt - Salt contains sodium, a naturally occurring mineral needed by the body to maintain life. Sodium occurs in many forms such as sodium chloride (table salt), sodium bicarbonate (baking soda) and monosodium glutamate (MSG). Sodium is especially important in the diet because of its effect in conserving water. Certain foods are naturally higher in sodium, such as celery, buttermilk, and some cheeses. Others, like canned or processed foods, have higher levels due to the salt added in processing. High intakes of dietary salt may contribute to high blood pressure or to your body retaining too much water.

Protein - Protein contains complex chains of amino acids necessary for conducting a variety of body functions, such as building tissues, making important body chemicals (e.g. enzymes and hormones) and maintaining growth and repair processes. While many plant-based foods contain some protein, including beans, peas, vegetables, nuts and seeds, these foods do not contain all the essential amino acids. Other protein sources from animals such as meat, fish, poultry, eggs, and dairy products (milk, cheese and yogurt) are considered higher in protein content since they contain all essential amino acids. Each gram of protein provides four calories of energy.

Fat - Fats occur naturally in foods and play an important role in nutrition. Fats, oils and some foods like nuts (e.g., peanuts, walnuts and almonds) are a concentrated source of energy for the body. Fats store energy in the body, protect tissues and transport fat-soluble vitamins in the blood. Fat is found in meats, fish, and meat substitutes, breads, starches and some dairy products. Fat supplies nine calories per gram, twice as many as protein or carbohydrate.

Carbohydrate - Carbohydrates are the body's primary source of readily available energy. The main forms of carbohydrate are sugars and starches. Sources of simple carbohydrates include table sugar, candy and refined flour products. Complex carbohydrates include starches like oatmeal, high fiber cereals and whole wheat flour products. Together simple and complex sugars are broken down in the body into glucose. Glucose is the preferred type of energy used by vital organs and, especially, the brain. Each gram of carbohydrate provides four calories of energy.

Cholesterol - Cholesterol is a wax-like substance that is not soluble in water. There are two different types of cholesterol: a blood (serum) form and a dietary (food) form. It is important to know that cholesterol is not only consumed in the diet, but also produced in the body. Studies show that lowering the amount of low cholesterol food in your diet is not nearly as effective in lowering blood cholesterol as eating less saturated fat, because some foods which are "cholesterol free" can still be high in fat.

Dietary cholesterol is found in foods of animal origin such as egg yolks, organ meats and higher fat dairy products. Blood cholesterol occurs naturally and is necessary for the body to produce steroid hormones like estrogen and testosterone. Cholesterol maintains the outer structure of cells and is also required to produce substances called bile acids that aid in the break down fats.

Eating foods high in dietary cholesterol and saturated fat may increase the level of blood cholesterol. A high level of cholesterol in the blood has been shown in studies to be a major risk factor for heart disease. Plant-based foods such as fruits, vegetables, grains, legumes (beans, peas and lentils) do not contain cholesterol.

Fibre - Fibre is a form of carbohydrate that is not digestible in the body. While carbohydrates have a big impact on blood sugar, fibre does not. Fibre gives a feeling of fullness and causes a person to feel less hungry. Foods such as beans, fruits and vegetables (especially their skins) and whole grains are an excellent source of dietary fibre and also contain many nutrients. If you eat more fibre it is important to drink more water to avoid bloating. Fibre contributes about 1.5 to 2.5 calories per gram.
